

“ I would recommend this program to individuals with real world leadership experience who are looking to grow in their theory and practice of leadership, as well as develop an understanding of how these relate to a leader’s Christian world view. Being part of the DOL program was a more affirming, rewarding and enriching process than I anticipated. The theory and praxis aspects allowed for tremendous personal growth in my practice and understanding of leadership, while the learning environment triggered an unanticipated amount of personal spiritual growth as well.”

- ALAN HARVATH

“ The Master of Organizational Leadership program is perfect for anyone who’s interested in growing professionally and personally. The most incredible thing about education is not what you learn about other people, different theories or ideas, but what you learn about yourself. My education through IWU has challenged me as a person and has made me a better husband, father and professional.”

- ADAM BINKERD

“ In my opinion, this program is perfect for leaders who desire to fulfill the calling to lead on their lives. It caters to a diversity of fields of practice, and the diversity of the students is what enriches the classroom experience.”

WELCOME TO INDIANA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY’S ORGANIZATIONAL LEADERSHIP PROGRAMS

While it seems to come to some people naturally, the reality is it takes work, dedication, drive, belief in yourself and a certain amount of fearlessness to truly lead.

If you’re open to being challenged, we’re here to challenge you. If you’re ready to grow personally, professionally and spiritually, we’re here to provide those opportunities. If you’re willing to follow your calling, work hard, realize your potential and then surpass it ... then you’re ready for what we have to offer.

“If you are interested in being a DOL [Doctorate of Organizational Leadership] candidate, you should have perseverance, determination, a clear sense of self, a desire to learn and grow as a person, critical thinking skills, and knowledge of the existence of God’s plan.”

JILL FORTE, MS, DOCTORAL STUDENT
Executive Director, Board Certified Behavior Analyst
Children’s Autism Center, Inc.

“DOL candidates need to be driven by a personal mission and calling to lead. They must have this as the core rationale for application or they will not be able to survive the rigor of the program. Perseverance and a drive to continuously seek to understand and develop one’s self is also necessary.”

DAMITA WILLIAMS, MSN, MA, RN, CPN, NE-BC, DOCTORAL GRADUATE
Chief Nursing Officer, Children’s Hospital of Michigan
Detroit Medical Center

“The MAOL program will best benefit people who have the desire and ability to lead but also have a teachable heart. The program is for hungry leaders who desire to grow within their profession and gifting.”

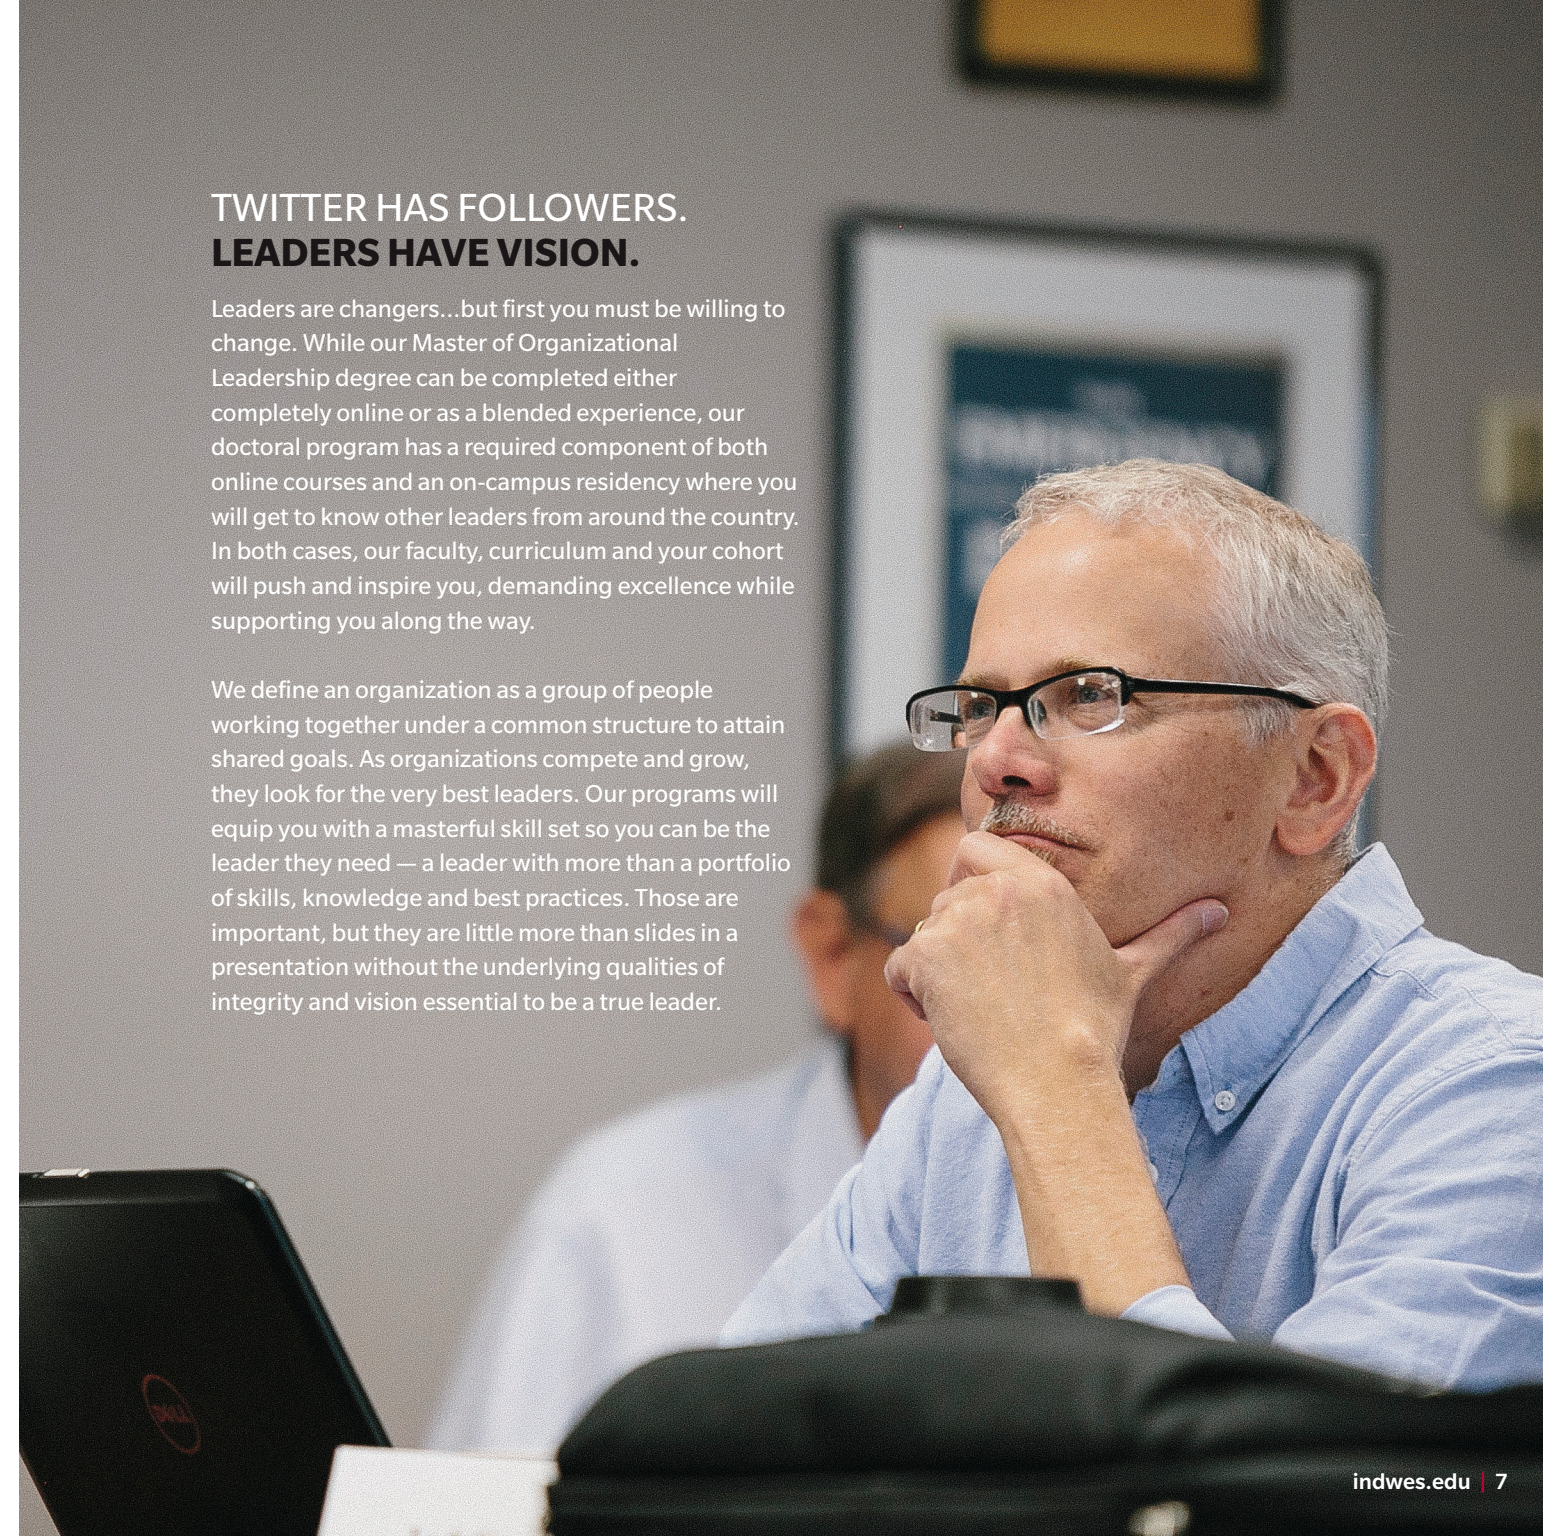

ADAM BINKERD, ASB, BS, MASTERS GRADUATE
Leadership Coordinator, Crossing Educational Center
Business and Community Development Coordinator, Grant County Community

TWITTER HAS FOLLOWERS. LEADERS HAVE VISION.

Leaders are changers...but first you must be willing to change. While our Master of Organizational Leadership degree can be completed either completely online or as a blended experience, our doctoral program has a required component of both online courses and an on-campus residency where you will get to know other leaders from around the country. In both cases, our faculty, curriculum and your cohort will push and inspire you, demanding excellence while supporting you along the way.

We define an organization as a group of people working together under a common structure to attain shared goals. As organizations compete and grow, they look for the very best leaders. Our programs will equip you with a masterful skill set so you can be the leader they need — a leader with more than a portfolio of skills, knowledge and best practices. Those are important, but they are little more than slides in a presentation without the underlying qualities of integrity and vision essential to be a true leader.

“The program has definitely challenged me in terms of stretching my ideas and beliefs of leadership. For instance, until I began this program, I always believed leaders were naturally born. Now I understand that great leaders can evolve over time if they invest their minds and hearts.”

MARIO RANGEL, BS, MASTERS STUDENT
Director of Campus Police & Emergency Management
Indiana Wesleyan University

“The program has absolutely exceeded my expectations in terms of my growth in my relationship with God, course content, faculty expertise, opportunities for personal and leadership growth, relationships with faculty, staff and other students, and the resulting confidence I have in myself as a leader. I am aware of my role as a leader, especially as a steward leader, in my family, my community, and my organization.”

- JILL FORTE

“The DOL program has been truly transformational. I not only grew intellectually, but also spiritually and emotionally. I am more confident, because I am more knowledgeable. The experiences that are integrated into the program serve to build stronger and more effective leaders. The faculty were simply amazing. They know me as a person and not just another student. They prayed for me during difficult times and genuinely care about each student.”

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES?

If you are seeking advanced leadership opportunities in any organization, we believe you won't find a finer, more proven, flexible program than IWU's. It's designed for working adults who have the intellectual capacity for advanced study, who thrive on the challenge of self-directed learning, who desire to master the discipline of organizational leadership, and who yearn to be part of our mission to raise up leaders as world changers.

“ I looked briefly at other programs, but the IWU program matched up so perfectly with what I was looking for that I quickly focused solely on it. The fact that it is a program that integrates both classroom learning and online learning was a huge attraction. This format allows you to develop personal relationships with your cohort, and those personal relationships enrich the experience and help you succeed in the program.”

ALAN HARVATH, MS, DOCTORAL GRADUATE
Engineering General Manager
General Motors

“ Because I am a registered nurse, I first looked at doctoral degrees in nursing, but my true passion was to gain knowledge in leadership so that I could assist the healthcare organization in better meeting the needs of its leaders. I believe that if the leaders are excellent and care for the staff, the staff are then better able to care for the patients and their families. I also chose the program because I valued the combination of in-classroom and online programming.”

- DAMITA WILLIAMS

“ While I did look at other programs, I came back to IWU because of the clearly articulated faith foundation of the program. I also had a sense of the supportive nature of the faculty, which has been central to my ability to complete the coursework. I knew other students in the program who I admired, who spoke highly of the program, which made the decision easy.”

OUR FACULTY KNOW THEIR STUFF. AND THEIR STUDENTS.

The members of the Organizational Leadership faculty bring an effective combination of leadership, teaching ability, and scholarly experience to the classroom and research process. You will learn from professors who have been leaders in business, industry, entrepreneurial companies, higher education, public schools and non-governmental organizations. Your experience here will take you far beyond basic leadership theory to implement innovative best practices in your own life and work. The faculty take a vested interest in your success and well-being. The rapport between our students and faculty provides great mutual satisfaction and plays a huge role in the success of our program and our students.
